2013 SURVEY OF AUSTIN AREA PRICES OF SELECTED FUNERAL GOODS & SERVICES
Compiled by the Austin Memorial and Burial Information Society (AMBIS) – A Funeral Consumers Alliance

Survey definitions, descriptions, and variables:

Direct Cremation is the transfer of the deceased from the place of death to a funeral home or mortuary facility; appropriate care of the remains (usually refrigeration for 48 hours or more); securing all necessary permits and authorizations for the cremation; provision of an alternative container to encase the body during cremation ("alternative container" refers to a heavy-duty cardboard container [or cardboard/wood combination], or an unadorned cremation casket made of fiberboard); transportation of the body to the crematory; the cremation itself (i.e., the fee charged by the crematory – from $225 to $550, depending on the crematory used); return of the cremated remains in a secure container to the family directly or making them available for pickup at the funeral home; and all other services of the funeral director and staff (the non-declinable fee or NDF).

Funeral homes in the Austin area use crematories in the central Texas area, which return cremated remains in a suitable container. The families of decedents who weigh over set amounts – e.g., 250, 275 or 300 pounds – will usually be charged extra by the crematory for the additional fuel necessary to cremate the body. Weight limits vary from crematory to crematory.

Direct Cremation prices in the survey do not include the cost of an urn (which can cost as little as $20 at a discount department store or close to $3,000 at some funeral homes); an urn outer burial vault (which can cost up to $1,000); any rite or ceremony; embalming; family's use of funeral home facilities; cost of obituary; or other services of staff.

The price does include the cost of shelter and refrigeration at most funeral homes for the 48-hour waiting period (which can be waived by a medical examiner or justice of the peace) between death and cremation, and often for a longer period. The cremation may be delayed if an autopsy is required, if the crematory to be used is so busy that it cannot quickly perform the cremation, if the paperwork is delayed, or if the family cannot immediately pay for the cremation. Funeral homes that do not include the entire charge for refrigeration in the cost of direct cremation are noted. Some funeral homes add to their cost for direct cremation the standard charge of $21.00 for one death certificate, which is required before the cremation can be done. Most families choose to order additional death certificates at $4.00 each.

Immediate Burial is the transfer of the deceased from the place of death to a funeral home or mortuary; placement of the body in the funeral home's minimum or least expensive casket (usually cloth-covered wood, wood with a veneer, or metal); all services of the funeral director and staff (the non-declinable fee or NDF); and transportation of the body to a cemetery or other burial site.

Immediate burial is usually done within 48 hours of death. The prices given may include the cost of refrigeration after 24 hours, but this is unclear on most General Price Lists (GPLs). Consumers should note the excessive charges for refrigeration at most funeral homes included in the survey.

Immediate burial prices do not include any rite or ceremony, embalming, family's use of funeral home facilities, cost of obituary, or other services of staff.

In determining the total cost for a burial, families need to include the cost of the burial space/plot, the charge to open and close the grave, a grave liner (which is not required by law but may be required by a cemetery to simplify grounds maintenance), and a grave marker. Prices vary greatly on these items, depending on the location of the gravesite and the materials used for the grave liner and the marker.

At smaller, rural, or natural burial cemeteries, families that wish to do so may often arrange to open and close the grave themselves. Veterans and their spouses should remember to obtain information about veteran burial benefits.

Non-declinable Fee (NDF) refers to the amount a funeral home may charge for the basic services provided by the funeral director and staff, plus overhead costs. The Federal Trade Commission currently leaves the amount to the discretion of the funeral home. The NDFs are included in the chart to give consumers an opportunity to compare and note the wide variance. The NDF is included in all prices shown. The NDF for Direct Cremation and Immediate Burial is usually calculated by the funeral home at a reduced amount.

Full Funeral Service is a hypothetical funeral that includes 13 goods or services. The cost of a full funeral service that is shown on the chart does not include the cost of a casket. The hypothetical full funeral service includes the following:

(1) the basic services of the funeral director and staff, including overhead costs (the non-declinable fee or NDF)

(2) transport of the deceased from the place of death
(3) embalming
(4) other preparation of the body, such as dressing, casketing, and cosmetology, though hairdressing is often extra
(5) public viewing of the deceased's body and visitation for at least 4 hours at funeral home
(6) a funeral service at the funeral home or at another facility
(7) a registration book to be signed by those who attend the services
(8) 50 acknowledgment or thank you cards
(9) 100 programs or service folders
(10) use of a hearse or other funeral vehicle for transport of the body to a cemetery
(11) use of a utility vehicle to carry flowers to a cemetery
(12) three vehicles to transport family, clergy, and pallbearers to the cemetery (This cost, which is often close to $1,000, can be deleted or reduced by the use of private vehicles.)
(13) direction of a graveside or committal service (usually included in the services offered as part of a full funeral service)

The hypothetical full funeral service does not include a casket; a grave space or plot; opening and closing a grave; a grave liner (if required by a cemetery to simplify grounds maintenance); an obituary; flowers; services of clergy, organist, vocalist, or other musician; a police escort; or any other services or products not described above. The estimated minimum cost for these services varies from $4,000 to $8,000 in the Central Texas area. These additional costs must be added to the cost of the funeral to get a true picture of the total cost of a full funeral service and burial.

Families who do not want all of the goods and services listed above for the hypothetical full funeral service can reduce costs significantly by omitting the items they don't want.

Other goods and services sold at funeral homes can increase the cost of a funeral significantly – items such as burial clothing, temporary grave markers, bronze caskets costing up to $60,000, bronze vaults costing over $16,000, extra viewing and visitation at the funeral home, alternative casket interiors, a crucifix, a flag case, prayer cards, video presentations, use of chairs/awning/artificial grass at the cemetery for a graveside or committal service, releases of balloons or doves, permanent grave markers or monuments, and other goods and services.

Extra costs may be incurred at some funeral homes for making arrangements for a service at a location other than the funeral home; for picking up a body beyond certain distances from some funeral homes as noted on those funeral homes' GPLs; for paying with a credit card; and for processing insurance policies. In addition, some funeral homes in the survey identify on their GPLs other extra costs that may be charged.

Caskets: The casket prices on the survey chart are for the least expensive 20-gauge metal casket (usually without a gasket), and the least expensive 18-gauge metal casket (usually with a gasket) offered at each funeral home.

Families wanting a 20-ga. or an 18-ga. casket should compare the prices in the survey to the prices for similar caskets available from retail businesses (such as Costco and Walmart), local casket retailers and online sources.

Other casket options include wooden caskets available from a variety of sources, including local carpenters and woodworkers, as well as the internet. Wooden "cremation caskets" are often among the lowest-cost caskets offered at many funeral homes and are suitable for burial as well as cremation. Families who wish to make the casket themselves can find diagrams in books and on the internet.

In certain circumstances, such as natural burial, a shroud is a choice to consider.

Embalming Option / Refrigeration

Embalming is not required by law in Texas. However, after 24 hours from the time of death, the body must be kept between 34 and 40 degrees by either refrigeration or the use of dry ice; be contained in an odor-proof and leak-proof enclosure; or embalmed, if burial or cremation has not occurred and the body has not been donated for education and/or research. Refrigeration is used to reduce or control decomposition while awaiting final disposition. Refrigeration costs, which may be included in the direct cremation charge, usually begin 24 hours after death except as noted.

Consumers should know that embalming has no public health benefits that have been recognized by any public health authority. At best, it merely slows the natural decomposition process.

Cost-saving suggestions for consumers

1. Choose immediate burial, a graveside service, or direct cremation followed by an optional memorial service that can be held almost anywhere people can gather together. This choice can reduce funeral costs by 75%. Or choose a reasonably-priced funeral home for 50% savings over average costs. The location of the funeral home is not a significant factor if you arrange to have the funeral or memorial service at another location.

2. Families who would like to handle some or all of the arrangements themselves can realize even greater savings with a home or family-led funeral, which, in Texas, does not require the services of a funeral director. With the proper authorizations, the family may transport the deceased to the cemetery or to a crematory that will deal directly with the public. If the family prefers to have a funeral director perform some tasks, such as completing paperwork and obtaining the death certificate, some funeral directors in the Austin area will do this for a fee.

3. Avoid embalming and viewing of the body in the funeral home parlor, a practice falsely promoted by some funeral directors as essential to the grief process. Instead, display pictures and mementos of the deceased at a gathering where sharing and visiting can focus on the memories of the deceased, rather than on an elaborately displayed body. Embalming is not required by Texas law for any reason. However, most funeral directors will not allow a public viewing without embalming because it affects their profits and they are not skilled at presenting unembalmed bodies for viewing.

4. If you need a casket, consider a cremation casket, a plain wooden casket, or the least expensive casket available, which you can cover with a flag, the deceased's favorite quilt, a religious pall, or other cloth. If you want to personalize the casket, you can invite family members and friends to write or draw something on the outside, as is done sometimes at home funerals. Remember, too, that consumers can buy a casket from any source or supply their own homemade one without incurring any additional funeral home fees or charges.

5. Don't be led to believe that the more you spend on the funeral or the casket, the greater your love for the deceased. Most funeral directors have always been sales people, who will many times use appeals to guilt, family pride, and social pressures to get a family to spend more than it wants to spend.

6. The funeral industry has depended on the fact that most consumers avoid death and its trappings until they are in the throes of grief just after the death of a loved one. Such feelings can make anyone vulnerable to exploitation and confusion. If faced with this situation, take along a trusted friend for assistance with making arrangements. A friend who is less emotionally involved with the dozens of decisions to be made can give sound advice and help avoid unnecessary expenses.

7. Discuss religious questions with a clergyperson or religious leader rather than a funeral director.

8. Become informed consumers now and discuss various disposition options with your family and close friends so they will be prepared to follow your wishes.

9. Closely examine funeral homes "packages" that offer specific goods and services for one inclusive price. Not all "package" deals provide discounts. "Packages" may also include goods and/or services you don't want, but you will have to pay for them if you choose the package.

10. Be aware of unreasonable markups. For instance, according to industry sources, refrigeration costs less than $1.00 a day to provide when all acquisition and operation costs are considered. Yet 42 of the 50 funeral homes in the survey charge more than $50 per day for refrigeration.

Many people who study the economics of the deathcare industry believe that high charges for refrigeration are used to assure that a family will choose embalming, which, in turn, usually results in additional spending for public viewing, a more expensive casket because it will be seen at close range by the public, and often a more expensive outer burial container so the expensive casket is better protected.

11. Most funeral homes will alter prices and services to get your business if they know you are willing to go elsewhere for service, and they may not charge you for everything they are allowed by law to charge for. Knowing prices at several funeral homes can give you an advantage when you are shopping for a funeral or cremation. Take a copy of this survey with you to the funeral home.

Survey prices: The prices in this survey were calculated by reviewing a General Price List (GPL) and Casket Price List (CPL) provided by each funeral home as required by rules of the Federal Trade Commission (FTC). Funeral homes are required by the FTC to provide price information over the telephone and to supply a copy of a GPL to anyone appearing in person and requesting it. Most provide a copy of a CPL upon request, and they must allow you to review their CPL.

Survey procedures: This survey provides price comparisons among all of the funeral homes listed for seven categories of funeral services and merchandise, except as noted. The lack of uniformity in the formats and contents of the General Price Lists can lead to confusion and misunderstanding. Every effort was made to assure that this survey compares exactly the same services for all funeral homes surveyed–differences are explained in footnotes. A few funeral homes do not offer all of the goods and services found in the survey. Some may not offer limousines, for example. In those instances, the costs were estimated and included in the total costs of a full funeral service to give fair comparisons among all funeral providers. All funeral establishments physically located in the counties of Travis, Williamson, Bastrop, Caldwell, and Hays are included in this survey.

Additional Options

If you would like to consider making arrangements with a funeral provider that does not have a licensed facility in our service area, but is providing funeral and/or cremation services actively in our area, we know of two such providers that have a comprehensive website for review of their services:

1. Affordable Burial & Cremation Service, www.centraltexasfunerals.com, is based in Killeen (Bell County, just north of Williamson County). This provider will make burial or cremation arrangements in person in your home, office, or other location. This business is owned by and serves all Central Texas counties in the AMBIS service area. Phone: 512-354-2509 / Toll-free: 1-888-360-3494

2. aCremation, www.acremation.com, is based in Rockwall (Rockwall County, just east of Dallas). This provider makes arrangements online and can be contacted by telephone. This business is owned by and offers only cremation services in Travis County within the Austin area. It contracts with local mortuary services and crematories to provide all local services. Phone: Toll-free: 1-877-353-3626

You may also wish to consider a home or family-led funeral. See #2 under Cost-saving suggestions for consumers on pages 2-3 in the survey narrative. Contact AMBIS for more detailed information about this option.
